

M

FOR MEN

KIM

JULY 2002

M

PULL!

RUBBER RIGHT

We paid one intrepid couple to test new condom innovations. Who says there are no good jobs left?

1. DUREX AVANTI POLYURETHANE

Before polyurethane, creepy lambskin was the only alternative to latex. Though the FDA hasn't given them their ultimate no-disease stamp of approval, these love gloves are as babyproof as latex.

She says: "Omigod, it almost feels like skin! I can feel a lot more heat through it, too."

He says: "Hmm. That's actually not bad. I'll use these if I have to."

2. PARADISE WITH ASTROGLIDE

This condom has lubrication that does not contain Nonoxynol-9, which can cause burning. (No, it wasn't just your manly size that made her run to the bathroom.)

She says: "They coulda been less stingy with the lube, if you ask me."

He says: "So can we use this for butt sex?" (Yes, but you'll still need extra lube.)

3. CROWN SKIN LESS SKIN

God bless the Japanese: They've developed a way to make latex as thin as physics will allow. For couples who want as little between them as possible—that would be all of us—these are clearly an excellent option.

She says: "OK, I gotta say, these feel pretty good, too."

He says: "It's a tossup between these and the polyurethane ones: You feel a lot of heat and some muscle squeezing. The downside is they're snug, especially at the base."

4. INSPIRAL

For a guy with a big, well, head, the bulbous shape fits loosely around the tip while remaining tight at the base.

She says: "It doesn't feel much different to me, but it makes a weird sloshy sound."

He says: "It's nice to have the extra room, but all the excess material makes my soldier look a little undersized."

5. TROJAN EXTENDED PLEASURE WITH BENZOCANE

These condoms are lubricated with stuff that numbs your soldier to avoid an accidental fire.

She says: "I do notice that he can go a lot longer."

He says: "This is like being too drunk to finish, but without the joy of a beer buzz." (All condoms available at Condomania.)

—Amy Keyishian

Synchronized Porking

If you're the kind of half-assed perv who likes the idea of doing it in public places but goes soft at the thought of getting caught, this public pool move's for you.

The water does the heavy lifting, so you can float her around a crowded pool like a jellyfish while poking her with your stinger from below—and still look like a couple of kids just horsing around. "The resistance from the water makes him thrust in slow motion, which makes me shudder all over," says Leila, 30. "The best part is being wrapped around him. Our bodies practically melt together."

How to do it: Stand in an area of the pool where the water is chest-level and pick her up by the waist (it's easy), then have her wrap her legs around. Free your willy and gently pull the crotch of her bathing suit to one side. Supporting her buttocks with your free hand, lower her onto your snorkel tube. You know the rest. M

